* A candidate is endorsed by the party at the party convention. A primary election is only held if a qualified challenger to the party endorsed candidate receives 15% of the delegate votes on roll call at the convention and files for a primary, or, if after the convention, a challenger files a requisite number of petitions to qualify for primary ballot access. Otherwise, the party endorsed candidate is the nominee. The Democratic convention for the U.S. Senate was held on May 12, 2012, and the Republican convention was held on May 18, 2012. The convention vote totals listed below were obtained from the state parties. An asterisk denotes the party's endorsed candidate.

* Conventions are held by the political parties prior to the primary election. A candidate who receives more than 60% of the vote is the nominee. If no candidate achieves that majority, a primary election is held between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes. The Constitution Party convention was held on April 7, 2012, the Democratic, Republican and Libertarian conventions were held on April 21, 2012, and the convention date for the Utah Justice Party was April 28, 2012. Convention nominees are noted with an asterisk. The convention vote totals listed below were obtained from the state parties.

There were two rounds of balloting at the Republican convention for U.S. Senate. The votes shown below represent the first round. The second round results were: Orrin G. Hatch: 2,313 (59.19%); Dan Liljenquist: 1,595 (40.81%).

* Washington utilizes a "Top Two" primary election system in which the top two vote-getters in the primary election advance to the general election regardless of party affiliation. According to the state, "Each candidate for partisan office may state a political party that he or she prefers. A candidate's preference does not imply that the candidate is nominated or endorsed by the party, or that the party approves of or associates with that candidate."

* A candidate is endorsed by the party at the party convention. A primary election is only held if a qualified challenger to the party endorsed candidate receives 15% of the delegate votes on roll call at the convention and files for a primary, or, if after the convention, a challenger files a requisite number of petitions to qualify for primary ballot access. Otherwise, the party endorsed candidate is the nominee. The Democratic conventions for candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives were held on May 14, 2012, and the Republican conventions were held on May 18, 2012. The convention vote totals listed below were obtained from the state parties. An asterisk denotes the party's endorsed candidate.

* Conventions are held by the political parties prior to the primary election. A candidate who receives more than 60% of the vote is the nominee. If no candidate achieves that majority, a primary election is held between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes. The Constitution Party convention was held on April 7, 2012, the Democratic, Republican and Libertarian conventions were held on April 21, 2012, and the convention date for the Utah Justice Party was April 28, 2012. Convention nominees are noted with an asterisk. The convention vote totals listed on the next page were obtained from the state parties. In some districts, there were multiple rounds of balloting.

* Washington utilizes a "Top Two" primary election system in which the top two vote-getters in the primary election advance to the general election regardless of party affiliation. According to the state, "Each candidate for partisan office may state a political party that he or she prefers. A candidate's preference does not imply that the candidate is nominated or endorsed by the party, or that the party approves of or associates with that candidate."
