9 Dear Mr. Hart:

10
11 This responds to your letter dated March 29, 1996, requesting an advisory opinion 12 on behalf of Townhouse Associates, L.L.C. ("TA") concerning the application of the 13 Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the Act"), and Commission 14 regulations to the campaign-related use of a townhouse owned by TA.

15 You state that TA is a limited liability company ("LLC") organized under the 16 laws of the District of Columbia.<sup>1</sup> Among other purposes, TA is organized to hold the 17 investments of its members and to purchase property in the District of Columbia. TA has 18 12 members, all of whom are natural persons and U.S. citizens. All twelve members of 19 TA are also members of Williams & Jensen, P.C., an incorporated law firm ("the Firm"); 20 however, the Firm has two additional members who are not members of TA. TA has no
21 interest holders other than its members. TA is capitalized by equal initial cash 22 contributions from the personal funds of each of its members.<sup>2</sup>

23 TA recently acquired a townhouse located in the Capitol Hill area of the District 24 of Columbia. The townhouse has three floors - a basement, a first floor consisting of the 25 living room, dining room, kitchen, and patio, and a second floor consisting of three 26 bedrooms. Eighty percent of the basement has been rented to a third party individual who 27 pays monthly rent to TA. The Firm is leasing a bedroom on the second floor for use as 28 an office (approximately 25 percent of the second floor) and 20 percent of the basement
29 space for storage, and it has access to the common areas on the first floor. TA's proposed 30 lease with the Firm provides that TA may rent out (on an hourly, daily, or weekly basis)

<sup>2</sup> You state that no member of TA is required to contribute additional capital. It is expected that rental payments from TA properties will be sufficient to fund TA "on a going forward basis."

1 part or all of the first floor subject to (1) TA's notice to the Firm and (2) the availability 2 of space.

3 TA intends to rent the remaining two bedrooms and living space as overnight 4 accommodations. TA also plans to rent the kitchen, patio, dining room, and living area to 5 event caterers. Given the townhouse's location, you expect that business, charitable, and 6 service organizations will regularly utilize the space for events. TA holds no other assets
7 and has no intention of acquiring any other properties in the District of Columbia.

8 Subject to the lease with the Firm and to availability, TA wishes to offer space in 9 the townhouse to campaign committees for fundraisers from time to time. With respect 10 to these events, TA intends to charge the campaign committee the fair market value for 11 use of the space, or to donate the space as an in-kind contribution to the campaign 12 committee. You ask two questions related to your proposal. First, you ask whether TA, 13 as an LLC "standing alone," would fall within the category of "any other organization or 14 group of persons" under 2 U.S.C. §431(11) and be subject to the contribution limits
15 applicable to a "person" under the Act. Second, you ask whether the circumstances 16 surrounding the leasing of space in the townhouse to the Firm would affect the status of 17 TA and its ability to make contributions. Your questions raise the issue of whether TA 18 would be subject to the contribution limits of 2 U.S.C. §441a(a)(1), rather than the 19 prohibitions on corporate contributions at 2 U.S.C. §441b(a).

20 The term "contribution" includes a "gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of 21 money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of influencing" a Federal 22 election." 2 U.S.C. §431(8)(A); 11 CFR 100.7(a)(1). See 2 U.S.C. §441b(b)(2) and 11
23 CFR 114.1(a)(1). Commission regulations provide that the term "anything of value"
24 includes all in-kind contributions. The provision of goods and services, including 25 facilities, equipment, and supplies, at less than the usual and normal charge for such 26 goods and services is a contribution in the amount of the difference between the usual and 27 normal charge and the amount charged the political committee. 11 CFR 28 100.7(a)(1)(iii)(A). See 11 CFR 100.7(a)(1)(iii)(B).

29 Under the Act, the term "person" includes an individual, partnership, committee, 30 association, corporation, labor organization, or any other organization or group of

1 persons. 2 U.S.C. §431(11); 11 CFR 100.10. The Act prohibits corporations from 2 making any contribution or expenditure in connection with a Federal election. 2 U.S.C.
3 §441b(a); 11 CFR 114.2(b). Contributions by persons whose contributions are not 4 prohibited by the Act are subject to the limits set out in 2 U.S.C. §441a.<sup>3</sup> More 5 particularly, contributions by partnerships are permitted, although limited by 2 U.S.C.
6 §441a(a). Partnership contributions are also attributed proportionately against each 7 contributing partner's limit for the same candidate and election. 11 CFR 110.1(e).<sup>4</sup>

8 You refer to Advisory Opinion 1995-11 in which the Commission addressed the 9 applicability of the Act to contributions by an LLC organized under Virginia State law.
10 The Commission reviewed the attributes of LLCs under the State law and concluded that 11 the company was neither a corporation nor a partnership under the Act or Commission 12 regulations. The company, instead, fell within the language "any other organization or 13 group of persons," which is part of the Act's definition of "person." Hence, as a person, 14 but not a corporation, the company was subject to the Act's contribution limits rather than 15 its prohibitions. In addition, contributions from the company's general operating 16 accounts or treasury would not be attributed to any of its members.

17 In a manner similar to the Virginia law on LLCs, the law of the District of 18 Columbia distinguishes LLCs from corporations or partnerships. A "limited liability 19 company" is defined as "an entity that is an unincorporated association, without perpetual 20 duration, having 2 or more members that is organized and existing under this chapter."
21 D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1301(16) (1995). D.C. law indicates the distinction of LLCs from 22 partnerships by specifically prescribing that certain steps must be taken to convert a 23 general or limited partnership into an LLC. D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1313. Moreover, D.C.
24 law prohibits an LLC from including the terms "Corporation," "Incorporated," "Limited 25 Partnership," or the abbreviations for such terms in its name. D.C. Code Ann. § 29-26 1304(b)(1). Under D.C. law, an LLC shares the corporate attribute of limited liability for <sup>3</sup> The Act prohibits contributions by several entities: corporations, labor organizations, Federal contractors, and foreign nationals. 2 U.S.C. §§441b, 441c, and 441e, 11 CFR 114.2(b), 110.4(a), and 115.2.

1 all owners. D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1314. However, LLCs, in general, lack certain 2 characteristics associated with corporations such as the free transferability of interests and 3 continuity of life. D.C. Code Ann. §§ 29-1306(a)(2), 29-1347 to 1350, and 1335 to 4 1337.<sup>5</sup>

5 The provisions of the D.C. Code governing LLCs are similar in all material
6 respects to the Virginia statutory provisions on LLCs used by the Commission as a basis
7 for determining that the requesting LLC was not a corporation or partnership for purposes
8 of the Act and Commission regulations. In addition, TA's Operating Agreement reflects 9 the attributes discussed above and set out in detail in footnote 5. The term of the 10 company began on January 2, 1996, and will continue until December 31, 2025, unless its 11 existence is terminated due to certain events. Operating Agreement ("OA"), Article 2.4.
12 The OA specifies events of dissolution that correspond to some of the events described in 13 the D.C. law. OA, Article 7.1. The OA severely restricts the transferability of interests.
14 OA, Article 6.1.

15 Based on the foregoing, TA, standing alone as a limited liability company in the 16 District of Columbia, is not a corporation or partnership under the Act or Commission 17 regulations. In determining how TA should be treated under the Act and regulations with 18 respect to the rental of space to political committees, the Commission examines the lease 19 transaction referred to in your second question. The lease specifically provides, in 20 pertinent part, that the Firm has the right of first refusal with respect to the use of the <sup>5</sup> An LLC's articles of organization must set forth the last date on which the company is to dissolve. D.C. Code Ann. § 1306(a)(2). It will also dissolve under other conditions such as the termination of the membership of a member (e.g. upon death, retirement, resignation, expulsion, bankruptcy) unless there are at least two remaining members (or one remaining member and the admission of a new member) and there is unanimous consent of the remaining members, within 90 days of the terminating event, to continue the LLC or there is compliance with procedures in the articles of organization or operating agreement for continuing the LLC. D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1347(3). Although a member may assign his financial rights, the assignee thereby receives that member's share of profits and losses and the member's distributions only, and this does not empower the assignee to become a member or exercise governance rights, unless otherwise provided in the LLC's governing documents. D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1335. A member may assign his full membership interest by simultaneously assigning all of his financial and governance rights, but a member's governance rights are assignable only to a person who is not already a member if those members (other than the assigning member) with voting rights holding at least a majority of the interest in the LLC's profits consent to the assignment. D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1336. See also D.C. Code Ann. § 29-1337. For a discussion of principal corporate attributes in an analysis of LLCs, see Nicholas G. Karambelas, Limited Liability Companies: Law, Practice & Forms (Clark, Boardman, Callaghan, 1994), at 11-02-11-07.

1 rooms on the first floor. From time to time, TA may, "with the prior consent of" the 2 Firm, use the first floor for receptions and events. In addition, TA's lease of the 3 basement apartment to an individual (from time to time), and the access of other second 4 floor tenants to the first floor, are subject to the Firm's right of first refusal. Lease
5 Agreement, Clauses 4, 4A, and 4B. Other information, including the OA, indicates a 6 close relationship with the Firm which seems to suggest that in-kind contributions by TA 7 would actually be considered as made by the Firm itself. One factor is the nearly 8 complete overlap between the members of the Firm and the members of TA. In addition, 9 no member of TA may resign from TA unless the member is also resigning his or her 10 membership in the Firm. OA, Article 6.2. Moreover, included in TA's "Purpose" 11 described in the Operating Agreement is loaning funds from time to time to the Firm or 12 pledging funds on behalf of the Firm. OA, 2.3. Finally, TA and the Firm are located at 13 the same address.

14 Although the Firm exercises some control over the ability of TA to conclude a 15 transaction, TA is the party contracting with the political committee, and TA is the owner 16 of the resources being used. In addition, the close relationship of the two entities does 17 not convert any in-kind contribution of space to a campaign committee into a contribution 18 by the Firm. The Commission recognizes that individuals or groups of individuals do 19 business in different forms, and that persons doing business in one form may be able to 20 make a political contribution from the funds of one of their businesses, e.g., a partnership, 21 while funds from one of that same group's incorporated businesses may not be so used.
22 For example, in response to a request from Congressman Bart Stupak, who wished to rent
23 office space and equipment to his principal campaign committee, the Commission 24 distinguished between different forms of ownership. A building co-owned by the 25 candidate and his spouse could be rented to the committee for less than the usual and 26 normal charge so long as half of the amount less than the usual and normal charge (i.e., 27 the amount attributable to the spouse) did not exceed the limits of 2 U.S.C.
28 §441a(a)(1)(A). On the other hand, in renting equipment from the candidate's 29 professional corporation, Bart T. Stupak, P.C., the committee would have to pay the

1 usual and normal charge in order to avoid making an impermissible corporate 2 contribution. Advisory Opinion 1995-8.

3 The Commission also notes that the close relationship does not implicate any 4 ownership of TA by the Firm that would necessitate treating in-kind contributions by TA
5 as impermissible under 2 U.S.C. §441b(a). The financing of TA is by the individual
6 Members of TA from their personal funds, not from the Firm's funds.<sup>6</sup> Moreover, it 7 appears from TA's stated purpose that it will provide financing to the Firm, rather than 8 the other way around.

9 From the information you have presented, the Commission concludes that 10 the circumstances surrounding the leasing of space to the Firm, as well as other pertinent 11 circumstances of the relationship of the two business entities, do not negate TA's ability 12 to make in-kind contributions under the Act. TA may therefore make in-kind 13 contributions of space in the townhouse to political committees, subject to the limits at 2
14 U.S.C. §441a(a)(1).<sup>7</sup>

15 You indicate that TA intends to rent space for events by business, charitable, and 16 service organizations, as well as political committee events. The Commission cautions 17 TA as to the degree of disbursements by TA that would entail in-kind contributions to 18 political committees and for other campaign events or activities. The term "political 19 committee" means any committee, club, association, or other group of person which 20 receives contributions aggregating in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year, or which 21 makes expenditures aggregating in excess of $1,000 during a calendar year. 2 U.S.C.
22 §431(4)(A). When determining if an entity should be treated as a political committee, i.e., 23 as a committee, club, or association, rather than as only a person, the standard used is 24 whether the organization's major purpose is campaign activity; that is, making payments

<sup>6</sup> The Commission assumes that none of the individual members of TA are Federal contractors or foreign nationals. The participation of corporations, Federal contractors, or foreign nationals as members in an LLC would raise the issue of prohibited contributions or expenditures which are prohibited by 2 U.S.C. §§441b, 441c, and 441e. Advisory Opinion 1995-11, n. 9.

<sup>7</sup> The question of how the Firm's relationship with TA affects the nature of TA's in-kind contributions is distinguishable from the affiliated relationship that may exist between Williams & Jensen, P.C. Political Action Committee ("W & J PAC"), a political committee registered with the Commission, and any committee for the support of candidates that might be sponsored by TA. See 2 U.S.C. §441a(a)(5); 11 CFR 110.3(a)(2)(v) and (a)(3).

7 organization's major purpose may be regarded as campaign activity, the corporation 8 would be classified as a political committee."). Absent any further information, the 9 Commission reaches no conclusion that making in-kind contributions will be TA's major 10 purpose. See Advisory Opinion 1995-11.<sup>8</sup>

11 The Commission expresses no opinion regarding any tax ramifications of your 12 proposal, because these issues are not within its jurisdiction. See Advisory Opinion
